County Authorities Fail to Establish Proof of Identification

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Four men arrested here Wednesday suspected of attacking an aged Missie Tenn. couple, were released today when Carroll county authorities failed to establish identification.

George Burton, farmer, was knocked unconscious and his wife struck by the runaway, one of whom summoned Burton to the door with the plea that he was wounded.

Officers questioned and released Calvin Roberts, 28, Columbia, Tenn.; A. M. Schriener, 28, Columbia, Tenn.; Asbury, 24, Manchester, Ala.; and William Glidewell, 19, Fowles, Tenn.

PORT SMITH, Aug. 21.—The Arkansas river at this point is at its lowest stage since official records have been kept in this city. John H. Gardner, district engineer of the United States Geological Survey, announced today that the river today showed a stage of 24 feet.

Key Farmers Will Be Kiwanis Guests

Drouth Relief Program to Be Discussed Next Week

Ten key farmers are to be invited to attend next Thursday's meeting of the Kiwanis club, along with Lynn Smith, county agent, as a part of a program of stressing fall planting of food and feed crops. Plans for the special feature were completed at the regular noon meeting of the club today at Hotel Barlow.

Farmers are to be selected who may have greatest influence in spreading the gospel of planting fall food and feed crops, which is a drouth relief measure. It was pointed out that assistance of this sort may be the only constructive service that can be rendered the farmers with the exception of governmental reduction of railroad rates to relieve feed shortage, and government loans upon substantial security.

Kiwanians also endorsed and recommended the sale of stamps, depicting 30 industrial, agricultural and resort activities, which has been undertaken by the state department of the American Legion, to finance a special exhibit train to the national convention which meets the first week in October at Boston. This train, which is to be the most complete of any exhibit ever sent out of the state, will serve to advertise the advantages of Arkansas to Legion delegates from all over the nation, as well as various important cities between Boston and Little Rock. Hope melons are to be featured on one of the thirty different stamps.

Ira Halliburton had charge of today's Kiwanis club. He asked for a round-table discussion of the membership in attendance. Mrs. Kate Scott Holland furnished the music for the occasion. Kiwanian Halliburton has charge of the program next Thursday.

3 Beaten, Said To Be Red Delegates

North Carolina Textile City Is Scene of Violent Attacks

BESSEMER CITY, N. C., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Three men thought to be textile strike agents were seized here last night. They were treated roughly, two of them being tied together and run out of town.

The men are said to have been Albert Herder, organizer of National textile unions; W. G. Brinkley, Winston Salem, N. C., Communist candidate from the Fifth North Carolina district; and Walter Wilson of Asheville, N. C., southern representative of the Civil Liberties Union.

According to the town clerk of Bessemer City, the trio arrived here early in the afternoon to speak and distribute literature.

Believe Parliament Members Lose Life When Yacht Sinks

Craft Crashes In Wind Storm at Late Hour Last Night

SEARCH FOR BODIES

Search Is Being Conducted Along Coast For Survivors

POWLEY, Cornwall, England, Aug. 21.—(AP)—At least six persons, among whom it is feared is one or two members of Parliament and possibly some women lost their lives last night in the wreck of a yacht, near Alling Light House on the rocks of Lantivet Bay during a severe wind and rain storm.

The yacht was owned by Henry Douglas King, member of Parliament and it is feared other members of the body had been invited to accompany him on the cruise down the bay and to have met with disaster.

Signals Received

Signals were received here in the night, that the boat was in distress. Life saving crews were dispatched immediately but the men were unable to reach the wreck of the yacht. A lifeline was thrown out but none on board seemed able to grasp it.

Two coast guardsmen in an effort to reach the helpless yacht said that they got close enough to distinctly hear the screaming of a woman, who apparently was in the cabin of the craft. They also reported that the first actual sight of human life on the yacht was a man who they saw dive off the deck into the water attempt to swim to the bank. They report that he was not seen again.

Upon seeing the man jump the coastguardsmen report that the yacht became a total wreck.

Today boats from here are searching the sea for signs of any who might, possibly have survived the storm.

A list of possible passengers is being prepared also in an effort to find just who were aboard the unfortunate craft.

2 Chicagoans Shot In Plumbers' War

Row Over Proposed Strike Is Followed By Fatal Shooting

CHICAGO, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Bernard Ruben, mysterious power of Chicago's journeymen plumbers' union, and Charles Mulachy were killed this morning by unknown hands.

The two had gone to the site of the Lane Technical school to call a strike of workmen at the building because the contractors of the job there had failed to fire the boss of the plumbing job.

Charles Seale and Charlie Seien, who have the contract for the work being one at the school, are being searched for by police.

A youth working in a barbecue stand said he saw two men enter the office of Seale and Seien and heard shots. Later he saw two men come out of the office and drive away.

Food Preservation Discussed In County

FERRYVILLE, Aug. 21.—Preservation of food and foodstuffs is being discussed in this county as a drouth relief measure and a series of meetings have been scheduled by the business men assisted by County Agent Bell.

Fall crops for winter and early spring and fall gardens are being planted and Mr. Bell says that many farmers are planning to butcher beef for canning and curing. Conservation of feed and food is urged during this fall rather than in late winter.

They Take Off Their Shoes to Eat in Japan

American Gives Picture of Dinner Party in Tokyo Restaurant

An interesting account of native life in Japan was received yesterday in a letter to the publisher of The Star from his sister, Mrs. Frank Murray Gibson, who visited briefly in Hope last January on her way through to the Orient with her husband.

Mrs. Gibson writes from Marunouchi, Tokyo:

"The other evening we were entertained at a Japanese restaurant. There were nine of us and we had a wonderful time. Upon entering the restaurant we all had to take off our shoes at the front door (luckily, it seemed that everyone was sporting new shoes). We climbed a very steep and shiny staircase, and entered a typical Japanese room.

"The floor was completely covered with a 'tatami' or straw matting. Sliding paper doors completely surrounded the room. In the center were three low chow benches, around which were scattered many large pillows. We all squatted around these tables in our best Japanese manner and were immediately served cold fish by brightly-kimonoed Japanese girls.

"After nibbling at our fish, we proceeded to another room. In the center of this room sat a Japanese man (he looked like Buddha) on a sort of throne. In front of him was a hot griddle of grease and upon this he was roasting prawn. Around his throne was an arc-shaped table, at which we all sat, and when he had cooked the prawn he would toss us one, each in turn. They were delicious to eat. We simply gorged ourselves on prawn and a few eels, which he cooked every fourth time.

"After stuffing ourselves here, we went back to our original room and finished the banquet with tangerines."

Drouth Program Is Launched Here

Fall Rains Will Bring Late Planting For Local Feedstuffs

A strenuous program promoting the conservation of feed crops already produced, and the planting of feed and food crops for the fall and winter is being carried on in Hempstead county.

Farmers are responding readily in every way they are able, and the merchants, banks, and other local agencies are co-operating to the fullest extent in the campaign, according to Lynn Smith, county agent.

Meetings are being held in the various communities where there seems to be need, and information relative to the most desirable crops to plant and the methods for planting, is being disseminated.

Perhaps the biggest problem confronting farmers when they are urged to plant heavily in feed and food crops for the fall and winter, is the matter of securing planting seed. While the more safe farmers are able to put up collateral and get the seed, at the same time there are many deserving farmers who are in a pretty bad way, and unless they get some form of assistance will be unable to get these crops planted, with the result that their livestock will either be sacrificed or they will feed out what feed they have and in the end will be forced to sell or give them away, according to Mr. Smith.

Rains which have reacted some portions of the county have put the soil in such condition that turnips have been abundantly planted. Rye, oats and vetch will be planted, just as soon as enough rain falls to justify, Mr. Smith reports.

Transformer at Camden Hit By Bolt

City Without Lights For Several Hours While Repairs Are Made

CAMDEN, Aug. 21.—Camden was without lights for nearly two hours when lightning struck a transformer at the power station on East Washington street.

The lightning struck one of the three transformers on the Camden distribution circuit and destroyed three bushings where the wires enter the transformer. Emergency crews from the power company here started to work on the circuit and sufficient repairs were made to switch the power load over to the emergency circuit from the Maquire sub-station at Cullendale to supply Camden.

The lights went off again for half an hour because of a fire at Cullendale. A fire in the annex of the Murphy hotel at Cullendale destroyed the building and spread to one of the poles of the high power line of the emergency circuit.

Arrangements Made to Hang Killer of 23

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 21.—(UPI)—Arrangements had been completed Wednesday for the execution of Carl Panzram, who boasted of having killed 23 persons and professes to welcome death, whose hanging September 5 at Leavenworth penitentiary will be the first legal execution in Kansas for 40 years.

Couch, One of Body Of Nine Appointed Today By Parnell

County Chairmen Being Selected This Afternoon at Conference

ARE READY FRIDAY

Sub-Committee For Each County To Be Announced

LITTLE ROCK, Aug. 21.—(AP)—A committee of nine Arkansas citizens including H. C. Couch, of El Dorado, was named this morning by Governor Harvey Parnell, to direct relief work in the state following the summer's record-breaking drouth.

Immediately after being notified of his appointment as chairman of the committee, Mr. Couch called for a meeting in Little Rock at 3:30 this afternoon. At this meeting plans will be perfected and the state organization will begin functioning Friday.

One procedure decided upon, was for the committee of nine, to designate a chairman from each county in the state. Each county chairman will in turn appoint a county committee of five persons. By this means, every section of the state that needs aid will have an organization of local persons who understand the needs of their home communities.

The state committee is composed of: Mr. Couch; Joe H. Stanley, of Little Rock; George H. Bell, of Nashville; John W. White, of Russellville; Judge John C. Sheffield, county judge of Phillips county; N. B. Hilger, of Fayetteville; Dr. C. W. Goss, state health officer, of Little Rock; T. Roy Reid, assistant director of the extension service of the University of Arkansas; C. A. Thompson, of Pulaski county, chairman of the American Red Cross, who was a notable figure in the relief work done in the state during the floods of 1927.

County chairmen will be named by the state committee at the meeting this afternoon, it was announced.

Shoots at Wife's Suitor, Kills Son

Other Man Declares Husband's Jealousy Was Unfounded

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 21.—(AP)—Freeman Y. Suter, 30-year-old farmer, accidentally killed his 6-year-old son last night in shooting at Wesley Motes, 25, a tenant on the Suter farm, who was also wounded. The shooting occurred when Suter found Motes embracing his wife Mrs. Molly Wallard Suter.

At the hospital today Motes told officers that he and Mrs. Suter had been to a prayer meeting and said that the shooting resulted from Suter's "unfounded jealousy."

Memphis Puts Old Paper In Building

Curios Relate History of City; Go In Postoffice Receptacle

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 21.—(UPI)—Historical curios dating back to 1872 will fill the copper box to be placed in the cornerstone of the new federal postoffice under construction here.

Unnumbered items to be stored in the box were recently removed from the cornerstone of Memphis' first United States postoffice. Postal authorities and city historians played ceremonial roles at the opening of the rust-covered container.

Among the mementoes were approximately $100 in Confederate gold and currency; record book of the state Masonic grand lodge; Civil war shrapnel; copies of pioneer Memphis and Indian newspapers; copy of the city's early history; a federal abstract on postoffice construction; a taxing district brief; history of a Memphis cemetery; a Bible; an Episcopal prayer book; a narrative on the Memphis yellow fever plague; and architectural drawing of the city's trade and commerce; roster of a guard unit; steamboat licenses; cotton exchange manifests; and a report of the federal land commissioner.

Opening of the cornerstone of the original federal building recalled the history of its tedious construction. Three interrupted building plans were related by Judge J. P. Young, Memphis' historian. He unraveled a graphic account of the yellow fever epidemic which hindered seriously the building program in 1879.

Where Wages Are High

A SET OF figures showing the average industrial wages paid in leading American cities, just made public by the business survey department of Dorrance, Sullivan & Co., New York advertising house, provides some highly interesting facts for our consideration.

The average industrial wage for the nation as a whole has been found to be $1300 a year. Dorrance, Sullivan & Co., using the latest government industrial census figures, found certain fortunate cities in which the average wage was well above this figure.

Leading the list were the cities of Flint, Mich.; Youngstown, O., and Miami, Fla. These cities pay the highest average industrial wage in the United States. Nine other cities, each having a population of 100,000 or better, showed average wages in excess of $1500 a year.

Some of these figures are worth looking at. In Flint, for example, the average annual wage reached $1770, in Miami it was but $50 lower, and Youngstown's figure was just $20 under Miami's. Following these cities, in the order named, came Detroit, Akron, Washington, New York, Canton, O., Tulsa, Bayonne, N. J., Chicago and Cleveland, with annual industrial wages scaling from $1480 to $1530.

Examining the data by states is also instructive. The District of Columbia has the highest wage—$1645 a year. It is followed, in this order, by Wyoming, Nevada, Michigan, New York, North Dakota, Montana, Illinois, Ohio, California, Idaho and New Jersey. Especially striking is the favorable position enjoyed by certain western states which are not usually considered industrial centers. Factory hands in those states, evidently, fare very well, even if they are not numerous.

States and cities occupying good positions in these tables have something to crow over. Here, indeed, is a notable field for competition between city and city—far more significant than the customary meaningless excitement over population statistics.

Heart Disease

THE latest mortality statistics of the United States Registration Area deal with 1,236,000 deaths, more than half of which are classified as from "chronic diseases" which might have been avoided, or greatly postponed, by timely action.

The biggest single item, by far, is diseases of the heart and circulatory system. Hardening of the arteries is a difficult disease to handle, but if taken in time is regulated fairly well by means of diet and other forms of sensible living.

So-called "heart disease," doctors say, is seldom a disease in itself, but a secondary ailment set up by some other disease. Very often it is caused simply by "focal infection" of the teeth tonsils or sinuses—especially the latter. Advanced medical scientists are now accomplishing remarkable results by treating such infections with ultra-violet light.—Paragould Daily Press.

Perfect Navies

FRENCH experts, studying the effects of the London naval treaty, say it will result in better navies. There will be rivalry now not in quantity, as of yore, but in quality. The powers will try to "squeeze a maximum of fighting power into a minimum of tonnage."

We shall have "pocket battleships," already exemplified in a new German model, with everything that a big battleship used to have except tonnage. France is doing very well, too, in that direction. Italy is going in for "wonder cruisers."

Naval rivalry might do worse than this. Let navalists turn perfectionists. As long as the art of slaughter is cultivated, by land or sea, let it soak perfection along with the other arts. When it really becomes perfect, it may kill itself.

Homes and Success

C. T. COLEMAN of Hammond, Ind., made a study of 125 C. problem high school pupils, who had never been disciplined at all. His percentages, published in School and Society, are rather complicated, but one conclusion is simple:

"Life may be made so easy for children that it is difficult for them to develop the qualities of character that are essential for successful school life."

Almost any observer could have told him that without the survey; but it is interesting to have the conclusion backed up by the statistics. Too much leisure and luxury are bad for children—and for grown-ups as well. We seem destined to be moving towards more and more luxury. If we can learn to use the leisure wholesomely perhaps the luxury may be rendered harmless. Meantime there is consolation for parents whose children must take a share in household duties and do without some of the things the others have.—Paragould Daily Press.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON. — The famous Caterpillar Club grows from month to month and on a recent count there were 253 members, eligible because they had saved their lives by emergency parachute jumps from airplanes aloft. Some have made more than one such jump, as 255 have been recorded.

Miss Mary Fahrney is one of the new members. Hers wasn't an emergency jump, but when she jumped by premeditation at Joliet, Ill., her chute became entangled in the plane and she dangled for two whole hours before the thing released itself and dropped her safely to the ground.

At the time the chute untangled itself she was begging her pilot to take her within 10 feet of the ground and let her jump. Another parachute jumper, Bruno Schustek, was killed when he attempted to save her. While his plane flew above hers he climbed down a knotted rope. Before he reached Miss Fahrney her chute had become disintegrated, but Schustek's strength was gone and, unable to pull himself back, he fell 600 feet.

Five years ago, Mrs. Irene McFarland, professional jumper, became the first woman member of the Caterpillar Club after her private chute had failed to function in one descent and she had in the emergency used the Army type parachute which she also carried, descending in safety.

Many Are Killed
Despite its large roster, membership in the Caterpillar Club still means something, as is indicated by the fact that some airmen reach the ground alive and some do not.

Lieutenant John R. Glascock of the Army Air Corps was one of the former, and his passenger, Private Stephen Yazza, was one of the latter.

Glascock was flying upside down near March Field when his plane broke into a violent outside spin. He tried vainly to do something about it and about 1800 feet from the ground shouted to Yazza to "bail out," although he could not see him in the back seat by aid of his mirror.

"The rest of the time between 1800 feet and 500 feet I was busy with the controls trying to get response from the airplane," Glascock reported. "Approximately between 400 and 500 feet from the ground I unbuckled my safety belt and was thrown from the plane in a horizontal position, slightly up, for nearly a hundred yards.

"I pulled the rip cord and the chute opened almost instantaneously with a very loud snap and intense jerk. I was then in a position facing the water tower of the field, and my body was parallel with the middle of the water tank.

"I landed hard, fell backwards, unbuckled the parachute straps and immediately proceeded to the plane which had crashed within 200 feet of where I landed and observed that Private Yazza was still in the plane and there was no sign of life in his body."

Robert G. Chew of Valley Stream, L. I., a new civilian member, had the experience of dodging his plane as it came toppling down after him. His right wing had collapsed about 3500 feet in the air.

Capper Conducting Canning Contests

Senator Capper Long Has Been a Friend to 4-H Clubs

Special awards by Senator Arthur Capper, of silver and bronze medals to the two 4-H club girls who enter Hempstead county's best jars of home canned fruits, vegetables and meats in the National Canning Contest at Shenandoah, Iowa, is announced in a message to the Hope Star from Shenandoah, Iowa, where the contest is being held under the auspices of the Household Science Institute.

Senator Capper, long a friend of the 4-H clubs and a member of the National Committee on Boys' and Girls' Club Work, in making the awards said that he hoped these awards would serve to encourage home canning work among farm girls and that they would prove of value to 4-H club leaders and extension workers in furthering this work.

The Capper medals are in addition to the list of 470 prizes totaling $4,250 in cash, loving cups and ribbons which will be distributed to the winners in the contest. The grand sweepstakes award of the contest carries with it a cash prize of six hundred dollars.

The contest is open to every woman and girl. There are no restrictions as to the nature of the food sent. Contestants may enter the fruit, vegetables or meat division, any two of these divisions, or all three. Entries should be sent immediately upon canning. These will be kept in exhibition at Shenandoah till the closing of the contest on October 1.

The list of contest judges includes five of America's outstanding home economics experts and nutrition authorities, headed by Dr. Louise Stanley, Chief of the Bureau of Home Economics, U. S. Department of Agriculture. That the judging may be thoroughly impartial and the display of jars absolutely uniform, contestants are required to send their entries in standard jars of the quart size. A sample Ball mason jar and carton, together with prize entry labels and full information for entering may be had without cost by writing the National Canning Contest, Shenandoah, Iowa.

Any preferred methods of canning may be used although it has been found that the hot pack method together with the use of a pressure cooker for the sterilizing is best, especially for non-acid vegetables.

States Grace Viall Gray, nationally known canning expert who is secretary of the contest. This method of canning is recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture because it saves time and fuel and assures sterility, while preserving the natural flavor, color, and texture of the canned article.

Piles Go Quick

Piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Only an internal medicine can remove the cause. That's why external remedies and cutting fail. Dr. Leonard's HEM-ROID, succeeds because it relieves this congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Dr. Leonard's prescription has such a wonderful record for quick, safe and lasting relief even in chronic and stubborn cases, that Ward & Son say try HEM-ROID at my expense. Your pile suffering must end or money back.

Does the grouch get richer quicker than the friendly laborer? Can the grumbler labor better than the cheerful fellow can? Is the mean and churlish neighbor any clever than the one who shouts a glad "Good morning," and then passes on? Oh, you'll not be any poorer if you smile along the way. And your lot will not be harder for the kindly things you say. Don't imagine you are wasting time for others that you spend. You can rise to wealth and glory and still pause to be a friend.

State Law Fails To Cut Marriages

Three Day Wait For License Drives Some Couples Out State

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.—(UP)—Youth of Los Angeles will be served and served quickly at the altar of matrimony even if a trip out of the state is necessary.

Rosamond Rice, in charge of the county marriage bureau, made this discovery when she looked over the statistics of her office for the month of July.

The report showed that 2719 applications were filed in July of 1929 compared with 2458 for July of this year.

"Quite a few couples have cancelled their license applications," Miss Rice said, "stating they intended to go to Reno, Nev., Yuma, Ariz., or Tijuana, Mexico."

All of the young people admitted they didn't like to wait for the end of the three-day limit California requires between the day of application and final granting of the license.

The law which is turning Yuma, Reno and Tijuana into Gretna Greens for California was playfully called the "gin wedding" law because one of its backers declared that many young folks wed during gay parties which would remain single if three days were given them to consider their action.

Largest Map To Cost $2,000,000

Relief Outline of United States and Canada Being Built

WELLESLEY, Mass., Aug. 21.—(UP)—The largest map in the world, which will measure 63 feet from East to West and 46 feet from North to South is being constructed here.

Conceived by Roger W. Babson, noted statistician, the work, a relief outline of the United States and Canada, is estimated that 50 more years will be required for its completion, and approximately $2,000,000 will be expended on the project.

The map will be 10 times larger than that of the Pan-American Union, and will show not only the land areas, but the water areas, and the relief of the land. The latter is flat, whereas that being pieced together here will be of spherical form in exact ratio to the earth's curve.

The horizontal scale will be one inch for four miles. The vertical scale will be one foot for four miles, insuring that altitudes and depressions depicted will stand out prominently. A gallery, 15 feet high, will encircle the map. Viewed from this, any section reproduced on the work will appear just about as it would if actually seen from an airplane at a height of 12 miles.

Not only will the topography of the United States and Canada be imitated with precision, but by elaborate color schemes, even landscape effects will be simulated as far as possible. Every river, mountain, railroad line, city, and smaller community of the two countries will be traceable from the gallery.

The Painted Desert of Arizona, the Everglades of Florida, California's orange groves, the pasture lands north of Rio Grande, and the ice-bound regions of Northern Canada will be delineated.

The entire work will conform to data being furnished by the United States topographical survey.

New Powder Base Discovered Now

British Chemist Favors Use of Earth Substance on Milady's Face

LONDON, Aug. 21.—(UP)—A new substance for face powder is claimed to have been discovered by N. Ingram Hendey, young retail chemist, who says the earth substance hitherto used only for chemical filtration purposes makes a more ideal powder than the present ones which have rice and starch powder as their base. Hendey says the deposits which are a heavy substance known as Diatomaceous earth, are found only near water, (either salt or fresh), and that when dry, they form a very light and porous powder which is ideal for toilet use.

Physicians pronounced her progress toward recovery satisfactory.

Move to Rid Nevada County of Pellegra

County Agent and Physicians Co-operating in This Campaign

PRESCOTT, Aug. 20.—Physicians in Nevada county are co-operating with Miss Sue Marshall, home demonstration agent, in an effort to rid this section of the dietary disease, pellegra.

Miss Marshall is advocating such foods as eggs, milk, fresh lean meats, tomatoes and leafy vegetables as a diet to combat the disease. Danger of the disease spreading looms with the failure of farmers to make summer gardens, Miss Marshall declared.

Canning of beef and chicken to supplement fall pork has been strongly advised by physicians, the canned meat replacing fresh products in the diet. Miss Marshall explained that the canning of meat at this time could be done at a reasonable cost since the price of cattle has been reduced considerably.

Shamrock V Groomed for Races

Here's the way Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock V looked after it had been hauled out of the water and an electric motorway at Groton, Conn. to be repaired and readjusted for the forthcoming America's Cup race. Exposed, showing the trim English craft's clean-lined, bronze-painted underside for the first time, noted that the keel and the gradually rounded hull represented a compromise between the building of the Westmore and Enterprise, the two American defender yachts. The Shamrock's main mast has been set up in three sections.

Mexican Ex-Chief Has Lived in Exile

General Francisco Robles Manzo Loses Fortune, Retains Health

TEGUCIGALPA, Aug. 21.—(UP)—Francisco Robles Manzo, the former Mexican ex-chieftain who has a good idea of how Robles felt when he was banished to El Salvador to ponder the vicissitudes of war.

He is the former General Francisco Robles Manzo, 29-year-old ex-chieftain of the war of Mexico, commander of the Yucatan, and the conqueror of the Yucatan. Today, he is a political refugee from his native country.

In the 1920 Yucatan rebellion, General Manzo served as commander of the federal forces in northwestern Mexico. With the defeat of his army by the federalists, he was driven across the international boundary, leaving behind him a fortune accumulated after years of labor in his home at Ortiz, Mexico.

Despite his comparatively low estate here, the once noted military leader may look across the boundary of his native country to a number of economic achievements which still stand as monuments in Ortiz to his enterprise. In making his escape, he left behind $500,000 of estate, a $25,000 light and power system, a modern water works which he founded, extensive ranching interests, some 300 miles of improved highways in and adjacent to Ortiz, and modern barracks housing some 2,000 soldiers when he commanded.

"Whatever glory that was mine was wiped out in a moment," he said, smiling sadly. "But I still have my wife and four children and I am a good man—so perhaps I should not be despondent. There still may be brighter days ahead."

And the once highly honored federal officer, clad now in denims, goes about his work as any other Mexican laborer. And occasionally from his lips sound Mexican National anthems he loves so well. Incidentally, one of General Manzo's favorite historic characters is Napoleon.

Relief From Curse of Constipation

A Bantam Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the large, dry, overworked bowel called the colon. The water softens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the cause.

Stop suffering from constipation. Get a Rexall Orderly at night. Next day, get 34 for the morning at the nearest Rexall Drug Store. Rexall S. Gibson Drug Co. Adv.

Spanish War Veterans Elect Mathias Head

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 21.—(UP)—Edward S. Mathias, former justice of the Ohio supreme court, Wednesday was elected national commander of the United Spanish War Veterans in annual convention here. He defeated Robert Wankowski of Ontario, California, the only other nominee for the place.

The 1932 encampment will be held in Milwaukee, next year's gathering having previously been awarded to New Orleans.

Maximum Reward For Mob Members Arrest

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 21.—(UP)—A reward of $500, the maximum under the state law, was offered by Governor Gardner today for arrest and conviction of members of the mob that lynched Oliver Moore, Edgewood county negro, Monday night.

Auto Wreck Injuries Fatal to Eldorado

EL DORADO, Aug. 21.—(UP)—Owen E. Evans, deputy sheriff here, died late Wednesday of injuries sustained when he was crushed beneath an overturned automobile on the Smackover highway Wednesday morning.

B. A. Hancock, also a deputy and driver of the car, said the automobile left the road after he had turned out to allow another car to pass. Hancock was unharmed.

Hope Held For DeQueen Wife Shot By Husband

DEQUEEN, Aug. 21.—Continued improvement was noted Wednesday in condition of Mrs. Ernest Arnold, 29, shot by her husband Monday, and hopes for her complete recovery brightened. Hospital watches are guarding against the danger of infection.

Arnold killed John Smith, 35, his wife's grandfather, at the same time he wounded his spouse and later shot himself to death after posess had started a search for him.

Yangtze River Port Burned, Looted By Reds

HANKOW, Aug. 21.—(UP)—Wireless reports Wednesday said communists captured, looted and burned Wusuh, an important Yangtze river port 25 miles above Kungang. Many refugees fled to the country. A Japanese gunboat was ordered to the scene.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAN RIDDLE, a temperamental young man of Hollywood, can't get along with a studio executive at Continental Pictures and tears up his contract as soon as he can. He is a free man. But he isn't. Dan is interested in ANNE WINTER, a girl from Tulsa, Okla., who has shown enough ability to warrant a screen test and a decent part in a picture. Dan lives with PAUL COLLIER, who writes a daily movie column for a string of newspapers. Anne lives with two extra girls, EVA HANLEY and MONA MORRISON. A famous director named GARRY SLOAN has shown some interest in Anne, hardly enough, however, to warrant any high hopes. Dan does not like Anne's father, however, an admirer of MARTIN COLEMAN, formerly of Continental, now of American.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXI

"ONE of my clients," Riddle said, "is getting married. He paused impressively. "Grand United's biggest star," he added. "Not Sylvia Patterson!" cried Louise.

"None other."

Dan said, "Who's she marry?"

Riddle shook his head. "I'm not telling, but you can try to guess."

"Not Garry Sloan?"

"Not a chance."

"Probably some millionaire," Louise Watkins ventured. "Sylvia would."

Johnny Riddle chuckled and filled a plate with small sandwiches.

"Not bad," he said. "The man's a broker and he's a millionaire. Now don't ask me any more questions, and keep it under your hat."

Got an apron, Dan? I'm about to serve tea."

The crowd lingered for another hour and then it broke up, but Johnny Riddle remained to loaf and chat and to propose a picture show. He said he was anxious to see the new George Arliss film.

"Come on along; I can get passes."

"Why don't you take one of your girls?" Paul Collier drawled lazily.

"Why don't you take a couple of them?"

"Why don't you go off some place and die?" Johnny retorted. He said, "I'm out of love anyway; I've just been thrown over again."

"You look broken-hearted," Collier said.

"I'm tired of it all," Johnny said with a grin.

"What you need," said Dan, "is a new client." He chuckled softly over his cigarette. Riddle, at any rate, had a heart that didn't bruise very easily. Johnny was able to juggle his numerous rebuffs like a duck shedding rain drops; he was as philosophical about them as he was about the monthly statements he sent out. Some day, Dan thought with a smile, Johnny would get a pretty new publicity client who would fool him completely by marrying him, and then there would be the devil to pay unless she put a pair of blinkers on him.

Collier, now, was different; vastly so. Dan tried to imagine him getting crazy about a girl, but girls meant nothing in Paul's young life. Dan surmised that might be one of the reasons why women thought Collier so attractive, though there were sufficient other reasons why they should think so. And he remembered a story about Collier, how a beautiful young featured player, had fallen for his nonchalant charms and had virtually trilled him all over Hollywood, and had her trouble for her pains.

HE believed, too, that Mona Morrison was becoming interested in Paul. The night they had gone to the public dance hall in Los Angeles there had been evidence of this to a person who possessed sharp eyes. An occasional look from Mona, a word, a smile. . . . Remembering Eva Harley's fiercely protective feeling toward the little red-haired girl, Dan knew a moment or two of uneasiness; but he thought: "Paul's common sense."

Johnny Riddle's voice broke in on his reverie, demanding to know if they were going with him to the movies. Paul Collier yawned and stretched lazily and got up, and Dan said:

"Well, I'm for it. We haven't budgeted out of the house today except to get dinner."

"Call up and see what time the feature goes on," Paul told him. "I'm for getting a bite first and then going for a ride after the show."

Dan obeyed. And after he got the information he called up Anne Winter.

"Just checking in," he said when she came to the telephone. "Survive the party all right?"

"Absolutely."

"Get plenty of sleep?"

"She had, Anne informed him, slept until noon. And she laughed. "Mona," she said, "wants you to know that I've had the best of care. She brought me my breakfast in bed."

"That's a lot more attention than I got," Dan informed her, and he complained about Collier.

Former saw very little of her during the next few weeks. Anne was busy, and so was he. Rumors were flying around the Continental lot now, but despite them there was feverish activity. Among his associates it was whispered that Adamson was trying for some kind of production record with which to impress the prospective new owners of Continental Pictures.

"He wants to hang onto that job of his," Dan was told.

From another: "If Lawson Brothers are as smart as I think they are, Adamson hasn't got a chance."

THE week-end following Collier's party Korrimer and Collier drove down to Agua Caliente. Dan had never been there, and he went out of curiosity and for the ride, for the tourist season was over.

"I might not be here next winter," he explained to Collier, who thought it queer that Dan should want to go to Caliente in June.

"Where do you think you'll be?"

"Oh, I don't know. Maybe back in New York. I'm not such a wow out here."

"You're eating regularly, aren't you?" Paul said. "Shut up."

Some days later, when Dan tried to interest Anne in a Sunday of swimming at Santa Monica Beach or Venice, she told him she already had been invited to a party at Malibu. About 10 or a dozen from the cast of the picture she was working in were week-ending at the beach, she said.

"I'm jealous, Anne."

"Yes, I know you are," her tone a little scornful.

"No fooling. Why don't, you ever believe me?"

"I do, sometimes."

Anne had a gorgeous time. She spent wonderful hours in the sun and the water. She didn't burn, for which she always had been thankful, but she came back a shade darker. Fred Hurley, the director, was in the party, and he was very attentive to her in an easy, gracious, friendly way that Anne liked. She liked Hurley; he showed her as much consideration as the featured players, professed to be enthusiastic over the progress she was making.

And she was progressing. The picture was in production now. After endless days and days of monotonous drill the dances were ready; Anne had tapped and kicked and tapped through difficult routines until she prayed for rest, had stopped at the sudden rasped command of the dance director; and then over and over again, hour after hour of it. And Hurley had given her the song he had promised her. He was not sorry, he said, hearing her rehearsal it; it was Anne Winter's song.

Anne danced as she sang it, danced with her hands on her hips and with her arms flinging wide in abandon, with a chorus behind her, following. She smiled as she sang, smiling with flashing teeth and curving lips and vivid, sparkling eyes, and she sang in a low, smooth, mellow-sounding voice, with a microphone following her about overhead.

She went through it many times before Hurley was satisfied; there were difficulties with the chorus; an extra "mike" was needed, placed low to catch the rhythmic tapping of dancing feet; the sound chief had a new suggestion that Hurley thought would help. And once, after going through the number, Anne swung away from the stage and found Garry Sloan watching her.

He was leaning against a step-ladder, one foot on the lower step, an arm resting on an upper one. He looked bigger and brawnier than ever with his white shirt open at the throat and the sleeves rolled up past the elbows, baring powerful forearms. He wore white flannel trousers, somewhat soiled, and his hair was a bushy tawny mop.

AS Anne passed near him he put out his hand and she stopped. She had seen a whole stage reason activity at a gesture from Sloan, and after silence reigned where, an instant before, there had been bedlam. When Garry Sloan held up a hand people stopped.

"Miss Winter," he said with a smile, and he straightened up from his lounging stance, spread his feet, thrust his hands in his pockets. "How are you?" he asked.

Anne smiled, too. "Very well, thanks, Mr. Sloan."

Sloan jerked his yellow head toward the set she had just quitted. "I've been watching you," he said, and paused, and Anne waited for him to speak again.

"Very nice," he said.

"You mean—"

"I mean you," Sloan's smile broadened at Anne's momentary bewilderment. "I mean your voice is very nice. I like it. I've been listening to you sing."

A compliment from Garry Sloan! Anne Winter's hands closed and unclosed nervously. "Oh, do you really mean it? Thank you."

Sloan said, "I was just thinking. You were an extra girl the last time I talked with you, weren't you?"

Anne nodded. "That was in 'Married in May.' And you gave me a bit, don't you remember? Oh, if you only knew what a thrill I got out of that!"

Sloan laughed easily. "I knew right away you weren't meant for extra jobs. Wasn't I right?"

Anne gave a little uncertain laugh. "Well—" she began, and stopped, and Sloan gestured toward the set again as if that held the answer.

He asked her: "Have you studied voice? . . . I don't think so," he ventured, and Anne confirmed this. And he said, "I'm not so sure that you ought to; there's something about it just the way it is. . . . Only, there's a man here in Hollywood who can accomplish wonders in about a dozen lessons—if you can afford him."

"I hope I can," said Anne, and Sloan promised to give her the man's name and address. "He's given pretty good voices to some of the people around here who never suspected they could sing a note."

His eyes inspected her critically in her scanty costume, and Anne stood, one hand on her hip, waiting for him to speak again, uncertain whether to go or to wait for his dismissal.

"Are you under contract now?" he asked presently, and Anne said, "Why, no; I'm just engaged for this picture."

"Well, something ought to be done about that," said Sloan.

'Good Times' Seen By October First

Bankers of Nation Vote 2 to 1 in Survey By Dr. Julius Klein

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—(UP)—"Good times" will return to America in October, bankers of the country voted, 2 to 1, in a poll analyzed in the forthcoming issue of American magazine by Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of the Department of Commerce.

The remaining one-third of the bankers polled, put the date no later than January 1. All predicted a healthier condition than that which preceded the 1929 debacle.

"The climb will be healthier than that after any previous depression," Klein declares. "The condition of 1929 was hysterical. We are heading toward an earned prosperity rather than an hysterical one. We will arrive at the brass tacks ear rather than another brass band age."

Klein points out that 11 depressions in the past 40 years were, on the average, of about 13 months duration. In no case, he adds, have these depressions, especially that of 1929, covered areas on the business map as have those of 1907 and 1921.

Outright stockholders in the six major corporations of the United States have increased by nearly 200,000 since the market crash, Klein says. Business and investors are more closely knit by improved transportation and communication. The country profits by improvements in a similar one, he adds.

"Foreign trade," says the assistant secretary, "will grow with the stabilization of foreign buying power; because Europe still buys half it needs from America. We will have a far more substantial economic body for passing of the cream-puff age in business."

Wants Place in Band

DERRY, N. H., Aug. 21.—(UP)—At the age of 14, Albert Otto Seeler will enter Harvard University this fall. The boy, who plays a trumpet, says his principal worry is whether he will win a place in the Harvard band.

OUT OUR WAY

Intoxicants Grow

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 21.—(UP)—Guaranteed to produce intoxicants, nature's latest beverage has come to worry prohibition officers. Whisky in the form of cactus, the El Peyote, or dry whisky cactus, has been discovered growing in Arizona by certain imbibers, who have been found in dazed conditions.

Escapes In Dive

SCHWECHAT, Austria, Aug. 21.—(UP)—While under police escort Michael Krejca, 24 year old electrician, broke away from his captors, jumped from a river bridge into the water, dived so far that trace of him was lost and returned to his father's home where he was re-arrested next day.

Peculiar Weather

FINDLAY, Ohio, Aug. 21.—(UP)—July was a hot month in Findlay, but it also saw the mercury drop to the lowest point in history of the local weather bureau. It went down to 36 degrees on July 16. Four days later, it touched 104 degrees, a maximum only topped by one other day in all July on record here.

Live life to the full

This is the most amazing century in the history of the world. Within the brief span of twenty-five years man has learned to fly, to talk across space, to see through living bodies. No one knows what miracles the next quarter of a century will produce. But it is not in these more spectacular inventions alone that human progress has leaped ahead.

Since the dawn of civilization women have aged faster than men. The deadly monotonous routine and drudgery of housekeeping has borne them down.

But modern science has taken away the chief causes of drudgery. Through advertising, women by the millions have found a way to have water, light, heat, cold . . . at the touch of a finger. No women of even the most modest means need be a drudge today if she reads advertising.

It is advertising that has stimulated an overwhelming demand for these newer, better things of life. And this demand has made possible tremendous new industries furnishing well-paid work for millions of men. An endless circle that has made the average American family today the healthiest, happiest and most prosperous in all the world.

Read advertising. Don't miss the new things—live life to the full.

ATLANTA, Aug. 21.—(UP)—After 50 years of continuous service with the Western Union Telegraph company, W. W. "Warhorse" Welch, veteran trouble-shooter of the Southern Division, has been officially retired.

Trick Falls

GLACIER PARK, Mont., Aug. 21.—(UP)—The roaring waters of Trick

Falls, legendary dwelling place of the "underwater people" will lull President Hoover to sleep while he vacations at Two Medicine chalet this month. For generations the Black-foot Indians have told the legend of the "underwater people" who dwell in the subterranean passage through the rock from which the full gushes. Rangers spiked the Indian legend when they investigated and found that the "underwater people" were other that lie hidden in the cavern and leap into the pool, at night to catch large rainbow trout.

OUT OF THE DROUGHT?

Plant Feed and Food Crops NOW As a Basis of Drought Relief in Hempstead County

Early Sown Oats and Rye for Grazing

Just as soon as rains put the soil in condition rye or oats should be planted for fall and winter grazing. For this purpose it is advisable to seed heavier than for grain production. Three bushels of oats per acre, one and a half bushels of rye, or a mixture of two bushels of oats and a bushel of rye should be sown on the most fertile land available. A special effort should be made to get these crops sowed on lands fertilized this year, especially following nitrogenous fertilizers.

Selection of varieties for early planting for grazing is not as important as selecting proper varieties for grain production. Wheat may be used for this purpose but somewhat later planting is advisable on account of insects.

When rye or wheat are used for early grazing they may be depended on to supply early spring grazing. Abruzzi rye is the best variety, but the cost for seed is about a dollar per bushel higher than for common southern rye. Rozen rye should not be used.

Fall Grain for Spring Feed

In order to have a crop of grain to cut for feed about the last of May it is recommended that fall oats be planted in Hempstead county.

Emphasis should be placed on the importance of methods of reducing the danger of winter killing of oats which are (1) Plant a hardy variety, the hardiest being Winter Turf, Culberson, or some strain of red rust proof, such as Applier, Ferguson and Hastings. Applier preferred. (2) Plant on fertile land if practicable. (3) If land is poor apply 200 pounds of superphosphate at time of planting. (4) Plant in a well prepared seed bed, using a grain drill or by the open furrow method. (5) Plant about October 10.

Fall Gardens

A good fall garden demands more than usual attention at this time. The average home supply of canned goods is reported below normal due to the poor supply offered in spring gardens. If anything like a normal supply is desired, a wide variety of fall vegetables must be grown.

Among the many suitable fall and winter vegetables are beans, beans, carrots, lettuce, cabbage, turnips, mustard, spinach, kale, rape, fall potatoes, sweet corn and radishes, turnips, rutabaga, spinach, kale, rape, fall potatoes, sweet planted. The earliest maturing varieties are recommended. The rate of seeding should be heavier than for spring gardens in order to partly offset the poorer stands usually obtained. These crops should be sown as soon as a supply of moisture permits. In the meantime no weeds should be allowed to grow and as the present crops are harvested the ground should be cleared up to prevent a further loss of moisture.

Gardens in Hempstead will likely come through planted by late September. Plan to plant more than usual for your supplies will be in heavy demand. Do not neglect to provide for your fall and winter needs.

Sweet potatoes are one of the few crops that will keep best during an average crop. In order to protect and benefit from this crop good storage conditions are necessary. Don't store good potatoes in poor houses or with poor potatoes. Store in a good quality and eat or feed poor potatoes.

This Information!

The above information was prepared and has been approved by the Extension Service of the College of Agriculture, University of Arkansas, through their local representatives, the County Agents.

The Livestock Situation

The livestock situation under the drought condition calls first of all for the very best feeding practices in order to get maximum results from the feed available. Below are suggestions which may help:

1. Corn which has past the possibility of making grain should be cut immediately for winter feed or in many cases it might just as well be used at once for feeding stock instead of letting them injure pastures by over grazing.
2. COTTONSEED MEAL is at least ONE and ONE-HALF times MORE valuable than cotton seed for feeding livestock. The value of corn and grass hays will be increased when fed with cottonseed meal.
3. If wheat can be bought at an equal or less price than corn it will pay to buy wheat for fattening hogs.
4. Stocker cattle and feeder calves are low in price. Some of these might well be fed at home and canned. They will make an abundant supply of cheap meat even after feeding to a desirable finish for slaughter.

Turnips---A Food for Family and Stock

Turnips as a stock feed and food supply for the family demand immediate attention and planting. Many creek bottoms have enough moisture to grow a supply immediately and there are many other plots of land suited for immediate planting.

Turnips are a crop that can be made wider use of and can in this emergency supply demands to good advantage. Purple Top Milan, White Globe, and White Egg are suitable varieties. The seed is usually broadcast, or it can be sown in rows. Best quality and size is secured by planting in rows. If planted in rows two pounds of seed should be used and the plants afterward thinned to stand two to six inches apart. If sown broadcast three to six pounds of seed will be necessary.

Turnips will supply food for both livestock and the family. The tops in addition can be used and shipped as greens. Plan to plant your supply at once.
